

Up Next at Iowa Speedway: Busch, Kenseth & Coyote Ugly

(Newton, IA) - Two of NASCAR's top Sprint Cup drivers - and five attractive members of Coyote Ugly - are scheduled to race and entertain at Iowa Speedway in the Rasmussen Group Twin 75's ASA Midwest Tour Super Late Models race scheduled for Sunday, July 10, 2008.

Kyle Busch and Matt Kenseth are in competition for the NASCAR 2008 Sprint Cup Championship with Busch - the hottest driver in NASCAR - already posting five Sprint Cup wins this year. Kenseth comes to Iowa with, at least, five top-five Sprint Cup finishes and one Nationwide Series win this season. Busch, in addition to his Sprint Cup wins, has four Nationwide Series wins, and two Craftsman Truck Series wins.

Iowa Speedway President Jerry Jauron said the July race should be a real crowd-pleaser, "Kyle Busch is the hottest driver in all of racing right now and Matt Kenseth is one of NASCAR's most competitive drivers and a former Winston Cup Series Champion in 2003. I expect them to put on quite a show, along with other top drivers in the Super Late Models race and we are delighted to have them on the track here at Iowa Speedway".

Coyote Ugly will sing, dance and strut on the pre-race stage along with a Firehouse concert on the Grinnell Mutual Concert stage with both acts starting at 2:30. The green flag drops for two separate 75 lap pit stop free races at 6:15 pm and again at 7:30 pm.
